Summary of Module

This module is aimed at those students who successfully completed Spanish 1.1; or for those with knowledge of the Spanish language at A1 of CEFR. Students will be introduced to key basic grammar points of the Spanish language and some tenses of the indicative including: present continuous, future and simple past.

There will be a systematic approach to explanations of sentence patterns in communicative scenarios and to vocabulary development. The theoretical component of the module will be presented in the lecture session of the classes. Grammar studied will be practiced through grammatical exercises and by means of syntactic and morphological analyses to make students aware of the workings of the language; as well as through reading and listening comprehension exercises. It will also be applied in presentations; role plays; pair-work exercises and other interactive activities.

Students will learn how to talk about likes and dislikes, make plans and future arrangements, buying transport tickets and organize trips, talk about the weather and about the past. Typically, students will read a short story, gather information and research on a region of Spain or a Spanish-speaking country and then do presentations, role-play or write short essays on specfic topics.

The mode of delivery will be over either 12 weeks (3 hours a week) or 24 weeks (2 hours a week)

Learning and Teaching

In line with current learning and teaching principles, a 20-credit module includes 200 learning hours, normally including a minimum of 36 contact hours and maximum of 48 contact hours.

This practical module offers students the opportunity to be introduced to the fundamentals of the Spanish language by way of some simple topics. Students will be strongly encouraged to be active participants in class and will have plenty of opportunities to work either in pairs and/or groups to practise their oral/aural and written skills. Independent learning is also an integral part of this course and students will be given suggestions of written and oral tasks to be completed outside class. Learning will be supported by the use of on-line learning environments

Learning Activities During completion of this module, the learning activities undertaken to achieve the module learning outcomes are stated below:	Student Learning Hours (Note: Learning hours include both contact hours and hours spent on other learning activities)

Indicative Resources

The following materials form essential underpinning for the module content and ultimately for the learning outcomes:

All teaching materials will be made available by the lecturer. Extra material, homework and extra tasks and extra sources will be provided in class or via VLE.

(N.B. Although reading lists should include current publications, students are advised (particularly for material marked with an asterisk*) to wait until the start of session for confirmation of the most up-to-date material)

Attendance and Engagement Requirements

In line with the Student Attendance and Engagement Procedure, Students are academically engaged if they are regularly attending and participating in timetabled on-campus and online teaching sessions, asynchronous online learning activities, course-related learning resources, and complete assessments and submit these on time.

For the purposes of this module, academic engagement equates to the following:

The university is committed to providing a supportive learning environment that actively facilitates student success. In this module, there is a high degree of student-led flexibility. You are academically engaged if you are regularly engaged with scheduled live sessions on-campus and online, including engaging with online learning activities in your own time, course-related learning resources, and with timely completion and submission of assessments.

Whilst we understand that there may be times when conflicting priorities make participation challenging, for you to gain the most from this module it is recommended that you participate in all scheduled live classes and complete your self-directed learning activities in a timely manner.

It may be difficult to pass the assessment associated with this module if you are not regularly engaging with the module work and live classes. We may reach out to check how things are going and offer support if we observe that you have not been attending sessions or completing online activities.

Equality and Diversity
The University's Equality, Diversity and Human Rights Procedure can be accessed at the following link: UWS Equality, Diversity and Human Rights Code. In line with current legislation (Equality Act, 2010) and the UWS Equality, Diversity, and Human Rights Code, our modules are accessible and inclusive, with reasonable adjustment for different needs where appropriate. Module materials comply with University guidance on inclusive learning and teaching, and specialist assistive equipment, support provision and adjustment to assessment practice will be made in accordance with UWS policy and regulations. Where modules require practical and/or laboratory based learning or assessment required to meet accrediting body requirements the University will make reasonable adjustment such as adjustable height benches or assistance of a 'buddy' or helper.
(N.B. Every effort will be made by the University to accommodate any equality and diversity issues brought to the attention of the School)
