Summary of Module
This module will introduce students to the concepts of event design and safety. The module will first examine the increasing importance of experiences within contemporary society, exploring the ways in which events and experiences are utilised as a means to deliver specific outcomes for a range of stakeholders. During this part of the module, students will be introduced to the concepts of event and experience design, gaining an understanding as to how to design, manage and evaluate experiences in a range of settings. The module will then examine how events and experiences can be designed and managed in such a way as to ensure that they are safe. Students will be introduced to the core concepts of risk management, risk assessment, crowd management, crisis management and emergency planning, as well as the legislative and legal aspects pertinent to managing events safely. By the end of this module students will be able to design events and experiences that are creative, meet the needs of their stakeholders and can be delivered in a safe and secure manner.
Exhibit an understanding of the nature of event experiences and growing importance of experiential event consumption
Demonstrate an understanding of the importance of creativity and experience design and be able to apply this in a range of business settings
Develop an appreciation of the practicalities of managing experiences successfully
Evaluate and analyse the success of event and experience design
Understand the concept of risk and demonstrate an understanding of the principles of risk management for events
Identify and understand key legislation relating to the management of risk for events
Understand the process of risk assessment in a variety of event settings

Learning Outcomes
L1	Understand and appreciate the concepts of creativity, event design and experience design and their role in creating unique environments, products and services
L2	Evaluate the implementation of event and experience design in a range of relevant settings
L3	Demonstrate an in-depth understanding of the key elements of risk management for events and principles of assessing risk
L4	Appraise crisis management responses relating to previous event related incidents and make recommendations as to how such occurrences could have been avoided
L5

Employability Skills and Personal Development Planning (PDP) Skills
SCQF Headings	During completion of this module, there will be an opportunity to achieve core skills in:
Knowledge and Understanding (K and U)	SCQF 8 Demonstrate understanding of the key principles of event and experience design. Demonstrate understanding of the principles of risk management for events.
Practice: Applied Knowledge and Understanding	SCQF 8 Apply the theory of experiential event design to practical event case studies.

¹ Where contact hours are synchronous/ live and take place fully on campus. Campus-based learning is focused on providing an interactive learning experience supported by a range of digitally-enabled asynchronous learning opportunities including learning materials, resources, and opportunities provided via the virtual learning environment. On-campus contact hours will be clearly articulated to students.

² The module includes a combination of synchronous/ live on-campus and online learning events. These will be supported by a range of digitally-enabled asynchronous learning opportunities including learning materials, resources, and opportunities provided via the virtual learning environment. On-campus and online contact hours will be clearly articulated to students.

³ Where all learning is solely delivered by web-based or internet-based technologies and the participants can engage in all learning activities through these means. All required contact hours will be clearly articulated to students.

⁴ Learning activities where the main location for the learning experience is in the workplace. All required contact hours, whether online or on campus, will be clearly articulated to students

	Use a range of skills, tools and techniques to understand and appraise risk in a variety of event related settings.
Generic Cognitive skills	SCQF 8 Reflect upon and appraise the application of experiential event design techniques in relevant event related settings. Draw upon case studies and practical examples to evaluate event incidents, issues and problems.
Communication, ICT and Numeracy Skills	SCQF 8 Apply a range of communications methods and information technology in support of event design and safety.
Autonomy, Accountability and Working with Others	SCQF 8 Work both individually and in groups in practical tutorial based activities. Take responsibility for completion of own work.

Indicative Resources
The following materials form essential underpinning for the module content and ultimately for the learning outcomes: Berridge, G. (2007) Events Design and Experience. Oxford: Butterworth: Heinemann. Silvers, J. (2008) Risk Management for Meetings and Events. Oxford: Elsevier.

Sundbo, J., & Sørensen, F. (Eds.). (2013) Handbook of the Experience Economy. Cheltenham: Edward Elgar Publishing Limited.

Details of further resources, including textbooks, journals and online resources will be identified at the beginning of each delivery in the module handbook and made available via the VLE.

(N.B. Although reading lists should include current publications, students are advised (particularly for material marked with an asterisk*) to wait until the start of session for confirmation of the most up-to-date material)

Attendance and Engagement Requirements

In line with the Student Attendance and Engagement Procedure, Students are academically engaged if they are regularly attending and participating in timetabled on-campus and online teaching sessions, asynchronous online learning activities, course-related learning resources, and complete assessments and submit these on time.

For the purposes of this module, academic engagement equates to the following:

The university is committed to providing a supportive learning environment that actively facilitates student success. In this module, there is a high degree of student-led flexibility. You are academically engaged if you are regularly engaged with scheduled live sessions on-campus and online, including engaging with online learning activities in your own time, course-related learning resources, and with timely completion and submission of assessments.

Equality and Diversity

The University's Equality, Diversity and Human Rights Procedure can be accessed at the following link: UWS Equality, Diversity and Human Rights Code.

In line with current legislation (Equality Act, 2010) and the UWS Equality, Diversity, and Human Rights Code, our modules are accessible and inclusive, with reasonable adjustment for different needs where appropriate. Module materials comply with University guidance on inclusive learning and teaching, and specialist assistive equipment, support provision and adjustment to assessment practice will be made in accordance with UWS policy and regulations.

(N.B. Every effort will be made by the University to accommodate any equality and diversity issues brought to the attention of the School)
