Summary of Module
Theatre Workshops is designed to equip students with a toolkit for delivering practical drama workshops in a range of contexts. The module is delivered over four day-long sessions, in which students have opportunities to experiment with a range of drama workshop activities including warm-up games, exercises for focus, energy, collaboration, trust, character development, improvisation, and imagination. To contextualise the practical workshops, students will participate in webinars which critically examine the various contexts in which drama workshops operate. For example, the module will look at workshops for devising, text-based work, applied theatre, voice and movement, mask work, and chorus. The webinars are intended to be an opportunity to interrogate the design, structure, and purpose of drama workshop activities, with a focus on planning and reflection.
