Summary of Module
The growth of global tourism is very much dependent on effective policy and strategic planning. Informed tourism policy and planning is born of creative, strategic and resourceful individuals and agencies. Governments, the private sector, international organisations, academic institutions, and non-for-profit agencies play an important role in developing sustainable tourism policies that transcend the economic benefits and embrace the environmental and cultural interests as well. This module aims to develop; strong research, analytical and technical skills, appreciation of theoretical frameworks, concepts, methods and approaches required for successful tourism planning/policy. Develop critical understanding of the relationship between tourism and government policy Gain critical understanding of the impact of national and international organisations on tourism planning and policy Develop critical understanding of contemporary tourism policy issues
