Summary of Module
This module has been designed in accordance with the principles of inquiry-based learning. Students will embark upon a journey of discovery in which they will explore critical and radical approaches in social work theory and practice. Exploring key critical themes in contemporary social work including the impact of the climate crisis and social justice. It will help prepare students to work in an increasingly complex environment considering how competing imperatives of resource management and the assessment and management of need and risk must be balanced in a socially just manner. It will equip students to engage critically and constructively with key debates concerning how social work practice should evolve to meet the requirements of integrated service delivery and personalised services within a framework of social justice. It will enable students to develop critical, anti-oppressive and anti-colonial perspectives in their responses to vulnerable groups and social problems. The module will be delivered in a hybrid mode with a combination of synchronous / live online learning opportunities including learning materials, resources and learning activities through a virtual learning environment. Students will be expected to draw from their current practice and use examples within all learning activities, including summative assessment.
