Summary of Module
This is a course for students who have studied French 3.1 or equivalent. By working through French 3.2, students will be brought to the C1 upper level of the Common European Framework Reference (CEFR); the mode of delivery will either be 2 hours a week for 24 weeks (Long Thin Module) or 3 hours a week for 12 weeks (Short Fat Module). The module is topic based and the students will have the opportunity to develop cultural empathy by studying two current social and cultural themes related to French society or to any other French-speaking country. Throughout the course grammatical and lexical features of the language are consolidated or refreshed in context and students are expected to independently address any learning gap in their knowledge through the use of a grammar portfolio which will be formatively assessed. Students will be encouraged to use language flexibly and effectively for social, academic and professional purposes and to produce clear, well structured, detailed text on complex subjects. Students will become more confident in understanding a wide range of demanding, longer texts, and recognise implicit meaning and in expressing themselves fluently and spontaneously without much obvious searching for expressions.

Learning and Teaching
In line with current learning and teaching principles, a 20-credit module includes 200 learning hours, normally including a minimum of 36 contact hours and maximum of 48 contact hours. This module is an advanced level practical language class which offers the opportunity to students to improve their knowledge of the French language and apply their transferable skills in different contexts. It will also allow them to be introduced to some cultural and social issues in contemporary France and other French-speaking countries. Students will be strongly encouraged to be active participants in class and to make extensive use of University Library resources as well as internet resources outwith the class so that they can be well informed and develop their skills of critical analysis. All four language skills will be practised via a variety of activities such as listening to audio and video TV news/ reports, debates, interviews, guest lecturer's mini-lectures; preparing and delivering oral presentations or summaries using their critical analysis and building up and consolidating their oral proficiency via open discussions and debates; reading challenging articles from French current affairs newspapers and writing a summary or a critical essay on prescribed topics. Grammatical work will be integrated in context and addressed to individual needs via independent learning.

Indicative Resources

The following materials form essential underpinning for the module content and ultimately for the learning outcomes:

All teaching materials will be made available by the lecturer. Extra material, homework and extra tasks and extra sources will be provided in class or via VLE.

(N.B. Although reading lists should include current publications, students are advised (particularly for material marked with an asterisk*) to wait until the start of session for confirmation of the most up-to-date material)

Attendance and Engagement Requirements

In line with the Student Attendance and Engagement Procedure, Students are academically engaged if they are regularly attending and participating in timetabled on-campus and online teaching sessions, asynchronous online learning activities, course-related learning resources, and complete assessments and submit these on time.

For the purposes of this module, academic engagement equates to the following:

The university is committed to providing a supportive learning environment that actively facilitates student success. In this module, there is a high degree of student-led flexibility. You are academically engaged if you are regularly engaged with scheduled live sessions on-campus and online, including engaging with online learning activities in your own time, course-related learning resources, and with timely completion and submission of assessments.

Whilst we understand that there may be times when conflicting priorities make participation challenging, for you to gain the most from this module it is recommended that you participate in all scheduled live classes and complete your self-directed learning activities in a timely manner.

It may be difficult to pass the assessment associated with this module if you are not regularly engaging with the module work and live classes. We may reach out to check how things are going and offer support if we observe that you have not been attending sessions or completing online activities.

Equality and Diversity

The University's Equality, Diversity and Human Rights Procedure can be accessed at the following link: UWS Equality, Diversity and Human Rights Code.

In line with current legislation (Equality Act, 2010) and the UWS Equality, Diversity, and Human Rights Code, our modules are accessible and inclusive, with reasonable adjustment for different needs where appropriate. Module materials comply with University guidance on inclusive learning and teaching, and specialist assistive equipment, support provision and adjustment to assessment practice will be made in accordance with UWS policy and regulations. Where modules require practical and/or laboratory based learning or assessment required to meet accrediting body requirements the University will make
