| Summary of Module  |                          |  |           |
| This module provides the opportunity for students to gain in depth understanding of ‘One Health’ concepts and develop analytical skills to study the collaborative efforts of multiple disciplines working locally, nationally, and globally, to attain optimal health for people, animals and our environment. With the use of ‘real world’ examples, the challenges and opportunities faced by different sectors will be discussed. Students will be invited to work in small groups to promote discussion and debate around focused case studies in each pathogen group. This module will support students to critically evaluate one health topics from an interdisciplinary and cross sector point of view, including critically reviewing and evaluating the literature, data analysis and understanding policy in relation to the examples presented. |                          |  |           |

<sup>1</sup> Where contact hours are synchronous/ live and take place fully on campus. Campus-based learning is focused on providing an interactive learning experience supported by a range of digitally-enabled asynchronous learning opportunities including learning materials, resources, and opportunities provided via the virtual learning environment. On-campus contact hours will be clearly articulated to students.

<sup>2</sup> The module includes a combination of synchronous/ live on-campus and online learning events. These will be supported by a range of digitally-enabled asynchronous learning opportunities including learning materials, resources, and opportunities provided via the virtual learning environment. On-campus and online contact hours will be clearly articulated to students.

<sup>3</sup> Where all learning is solely delivered by web-based or internet-based technologies and the participants can engage in all learning activities through these means. All required contact hours will be clearly articulated to students.

<sup>4</sup> Learning activities where the main location for the learning experience is in the workplace. All required contact hours, whether online or on campus, will be clearly articulated to students

| Learning and Teaching   |
| In line with current learning and teaching principles, a 20-credit module includes 200 learning hours, normally including a minimum of 36 contact hours and maximum of 48 contact hours. |

This module is designed to foster a collaborative, interdisciplinary approach to real world challenge in the One Health context. It will support students to critically evaluate one health topics from an interdisciplinary and cross sector point of view, including critically reviewing and evaluating the literature, data analysis and understanding policy in relation to the examples presented.

Indicative Resources

The following materials form essential underpinning for the module content and ultimately for the learning outcomes:

United Nation resources on the website Textbook: Introduction to One Health: An Interdisciplinary Approach to Planetary Health Sharon L. Deem, Kelly E. Lane-deGraaf, Elizabeth A. Rayhel ISBN: 978-1-119-38285-0 November 2018 Wiley-Blackwell 296

(N.B. Although reading lists should include current publications, students are advised (particularly for material marked with an asterisk*) to wait until the start of session for confirmation of the most up-to-date material)

Attendance and Engagement Requirements

In line with the Student Attendance and Engagement Procedure, Students are academically engaged if they are regularly attending and participating in timetabled on-campus and online teaching sessions, asynchronous online learning activities, course-related learning resources, and complete assessments and submit these on time.

For the purposes of this module, academic engagement equates to the following:

Attendance for face to face, on campus lectures

Equality and Diversity

The University's Equality, Diversity and Human Rights Procedure can be accessed at the following link: UWS Equality, Diversity and Human Rights Code.

In line with current legislation (Equality Act, 2010) and the UWS Equality, Diversity, and Human Rights Code, our modules are accessible and inclusive, with reasonable adjustment for different needs where appropriate. Module materials comply with university guidance on inclusive learning and teaching, and specialist assistive equipment, support provision and adjustment to assessment practice will be made in accordance with UWS policy and regulations. Where modules require practical and/or laboratory-based learning or assessment required to meet accrediting body requirements the University will make reasonable adjustment such as adjustable height benches or assistance of a 'buddy' or helper.

(N.B. Every effort will be made by the University to accommodate any equality and diversity issues brought to the attention of the School)
