Summary of Module

This is the first module of the PgDip / Pg Cert in Cognitive Behavioural Therapy.

This module will introduce the student to the essential practices and professional activities that are regarded as the essence of good psychotherapeutic practice in Cognitive Behavioural Therapy (CBT) practice. The student will learn about the history of CBT, and will be able to consider this orientation from a critical perspective. The historical development of CBT will be reviewed and the relative contributions of the cognitive behavioural schools will be introduced in relation to a contemporary 5 areas model. Key emphasis will be given to the factors that influence the formation and maintenance of good therapeutic relations, as will choosing and interpreting specific assessment tools in order to measure important factors that may be relevant to choosing effective treatment.

[1] Where contact hours are synchronous/ live and take place fully on campus. Campus-based learning is focused on providing an interactive learning experience supported by a range of digitally-enabled asynchronous learning opportunities including learning materials, resources, and opportunities provided via the virtual learning environment. On-campus contact hours will be clearly articulated to students.

[2] The module includes a combination of synchronous/ live on-campus and online learning events. These will be supported by a range of digitally-enabled asynchronous learning opportunities including learning materials, resources, and opportunities provided via the virtual learning environment. On-campus and online contact hours will be clearly articulated to students.

[3] Where all learning is solely delivered by web-based or internet-based technologies and the participants can engage in all learning activities through these means. All required contact hours will be clearly articulated to students.

[4] Learning activities where the main location for the learning experience is in the workplace. All required contact hours, whether online or on campus, will be clearly articulated to students
