Learning and Teaching In line with current learning and teaching principles, a 20-credit module includes 200 learning hours, normally including a minimum of 36 contact hours and maximum of 48 contact hours. The module will be guided by social constructivist epistemology, encouraging shared learning, and recognising the students previous experience and knowledge and the value this has in a shared learning process. The module materials will be delivered online and will be supported through related skills practice, augmented by preparatory reading, and follow up discussion. Student contributions to the discussion will help shape the content of subsequent online tutorials. Peer support will also be facilitated to encourage networking within the student cohort and through student engagement with online discussion and the module Aula platform. Prior to commencing the module students should ensure that they have access to the technology and understanding required to access online materials and to participate within online video communication. The learning and teaching methods used within the module include Microsoft Teams as a platform to deliver online tutorials supporting Aula based workbooks and discussion boards to enrich the students' knowledge and understanding of the topics. There is an essential skills element to the module and students will undertake online skills-based workshops which will be taught using structured experiential strategies including role play, peer assessment and peer review, modelling, group discussion and problem based learning.

Indicative Resources

The following materials form essential underpinning for the module content and ultimately for the learning outcomes:

Indicative reading will be provided each fortnight along with the asynchronous activities

(N.B. Although reading lists should include current publications, students are advised (particularly for material marked with an asterisk*) to wait until the start of session for confirmation of the most up-to-date material)

Attendance and Engagement Requirements

In line with the Student Attendance and Engagement Procedure, Students are academically engaged if they are regularly attending and participating in timetabled on-campus and online teaching sessions, asynchronous online learning activities, course-related learning resources, and complete assessments and submit these on time.

For the purposes of this module, academic engagement equates to the following:

In line with the Student Attendance and Engagement Procedure: Students are academically engaged if they are regularly attending and participating in timetabled on-campus and online teaching sessions, asynchronous online learning activities, course-related learning resources, and complete assessments and submit these on time. For the purposes of this module, academic engagement equates to the following:

- Along with completion of the module materials each week you are expected to participate in the scheduled online tutorials and peer supervision.

The university is committed to providing a supportive learning environment that actively facilitates student success. In this module, there is a high degree of student-led flexibility. You are academically engaged if you are regularly engaged with scheduled live sessions on-campus and online, including engaging with online learning activities in your own time, course-related learning resources, and with timely completion and submission of assessments. Whilst we understand that there may be times when conflicting priorities make participation challenging, for you to gain the most from this module it is recommended that you participate in all scheduled live classes and complete your self-directed learning activities in a timely manner. It may be difficult to pass the assessment associated with this module if you are not regularly engaging with the module work and live classes. We may reach out to check how things are going and offer support if we observe that you have not been attending sessions or completing online activities.

Equality and Diversity

The University's Equality, Diversity and Human Rights Procedure can be accessed at the following link: UWS Equality, Diversity and Human Rights Code.

The University's Equality, Diversity and Human Rights Procedure can be accessed at the following link: UWS Equality, Diversity and Human Rights Code.

The Module Co-ordinators will consider the accessibility of the module for groups with protected characteristics. Note: Every effort will be made by the University to accommodate any equality and diversity issues brought to the attention of the School.

In line with current legislation (Equality Act, 2010) and the UWS Equality, Diversity, and Human Rights Code, our modules are accessible and inclusive, with reasonable adjustment for different needs where appropriate. Module materials comply with University guidance on inclusive learning and teaching, and specialist assistive equipment, support provision and adjustment to assessment practice will be made in accordance with UWS policy and regulations. Where modules require practical and/or laboratory based learning or assessment required to meet accrediting body requirements the University will make reasonable adjustment such as adjustable height benches or assistance of a 'buddy' or helper.

(N.B. Every effort will be made by the University to accommodate any equality and diversity issues brought to the attention of the School)
