Summary of Module

The module is designed to prepare nurses for the senior / specialist role in a range of integrated community settings. The module aims to enhance the students existing theory and practice enabling them to develop skills in person-centred assessment to provide safe and effective person-centred care to people with complex health and care needs.

This module is underpinned by NHS Education for Scotland Career Framework (NES, 2017) and the vision of the Transforming Nursing Roles vision in Scotland. It will facilitate the student's ability to use a range of clinical assessment skills including the ability to undertake a structured history-taking and appropriate clinical assessment to consider possible diagnosis and make a clinical decision.

Students will develop a critical understanding of their role in improving professional practice within the health and social care landscape and leading care for people within their scope of competence in area of practice. The module will develop knowledge and skills in areas including frailty and palliative care.

Attendance and Engagement Requirements

In line with the Student Attendance and Engagement Procedure, Students are academically engaged if they are regularly attending and participating in timetabled on-campus and online teaching sessions, asynchronous online learning activities, course-related learning resources, and complete assessments and submit these on time.

For the purposes of this module, academic engagement equates to the following:

The university is committed to providing a supportive learning environment that actively facilitates student success. In this module, there is a high degree of student-led flexibility. You are academically engaged if you are regularly engaged with scheduled live sessions online, including engaging with online learning activities in your own time, course-related learning resources, and with timely completion and submission of assessments.

Whilst we understand that there may be times when conflicting priorities make participation challenging, for you to gain the most from this module it is recommended that you participate in all scheduled live online classes and complete your self-directed learning activities in a timely manner.

It may be difficult to pass the assessment associated with this module if you are not regularly engaging with the module work and live online classes. We may reach out to check how things are going and offer support if we observe that you have not been attending online sessions or completing online activities.

Equality and Diversity

The University's Equality, Diversity and Human Rights Procedure can be accessed at the following link: UWS Equality, Diversity and Human Rights Code.

In line with current legislation (Equality Act, 2010) and the UWS Equality, Diversity, and Human Rights Code, our modules are accessible and inclusive, with reasonable adjustment for different needs where appropriate. Module materials comply with University guidance on inclusive learning and teaching, and specialist assistive equipment, support provision and adjustment to assessment practice will be made in accordance with UWS policy and regulations.

(N.B. Every effort will be made by the University to accommodate any equality and diversity issues brought to the attention of the School)
