Summary of Module

The module is designed to provide students with the opportunity to critically examine theory relating to human development, health, and well-being. Underpinned by the Human Rights Act (1998), enabling students to develop a critical understanding of how development, health, and well-being influence the policy and legislative context in which the SCPHN Occupational Health Nurse practices.

The module adopts a social justice lens, supporting Occupational Health students to critically examine the complexity of their practice context, enabling them to appraise, challenge, and mitigate health and social inequalities. Students will build on prior knowledge, creating opportunities to examine and critically appraise the evidence base to develop and enhance knowledge and understanding of how adversity and resilience-promoting factors, can impact employee wellbeing. Students will apply this evidence whilst working in partnership with employees, employers, and organisations.

With the knowledge and understanding acquired from this module, students will become trauma-informed/skilled Occupational Health Nurses. This will prepare them to undertake complex assessments of risk and need that inform professional judgements and decisions. Students will adopt a salutogenic approach, enabling them to enhance person-centred care in providing occupational health care that meets the needs of employees and organisations.

This module embraces the concept of Mastersness described in the QAA Scotland (2013) 'Facets of Mastersness' toolkit. Students are encouraged to reflect on learning achievements, experiences, and the implications these have for their future development. Further, the module embraces the three overarching UWS Graduate Attributes that state that our students on graduation will be Universal, Work-ready, and Successful. This includes being critical, analytical, and inquiring with cultural awareness. Students will be research minded, digitally literate, motivated, creative, and resilient, leading to success and enhanced work-related opportunities.

Learning and Teaching
In line with current learning and teaching principles, a 20-credit module includes 200 learning hours, normally including a minimum of 36 contact hours and maximum of 48 contact hours. A range of learning and teaching strategies will be used to support student learning, enabling the achievement of module learning outcomes. A Distance learning/ online approach (UWS Curriculum Framework, 2022) will be applied, reflecting a flexible student-centred philosophy, where authentic and inclusive learning activities are used for the delivery of module content, using the UWS Virtual Learning Platform. Students will be required to participate in collaborative, curricular co-creational learning opportunities, with their peer group and academic staff for the duration of the module. This includes activities such as; critical discussion groups, case study and scenario-based problem solving, case reviews, and group tutorials. Work-based learning is a key component of learning within this module. Students will participate in work-based learning within their own area of practice and continue to build on their knowledge and understanding of their professional role with the application of theoretical knowledge into the clinical realm. This work-based learning is supported in the clinical field with a Practice Assessor and a Practice Supervisor.

Attendance and Engagement Requirements

In line with the Student Attendance and Engagement Procedure, Students are academically engaged if they are regularly attending and participating in timetabled on-campus and online teaching sessions, asynchronous online learning activities, course-related learning resources, and complete assessments and submit these on time.

For the purposes of this module, academic engagement equates to the following:

The university is committed to providing a supportive learning environment that actively facilitates student success. In this module, there is a high degree of student-led flexibility. You are academically engaged if you are regularly engaged with scheduled live sessions on-campus and online, including engaging with online learning activities in your own time, course-related learning resources, and with timely completion and submission of assessments.

Whilst we understand that there may be times when conflicting priorities make participation challenging, for you to gain the most from this module it is recommended that you participate in all scheduled live classes and complete your self-directed learning activities in a timely manner.

It may be difficult to pass the assessment associated with this module if you are not regularly engaging with the module work and live classes. We may reach out to check how things are going and offer support if we observe that you have not been attending sessions.

Equality and Diversity

The University's Equality, Diversity and Human Rights Procedure can be accessed at the following link: UWS Equality, Diversity and Human Rights Code.

This module is appropriate for all students. In line with current legislation (Equality Act, 2010) and the UWS Equality, Diversity, and Human Rights Code, our modules are accessible and inclusive, with reasonable adjustment for different needs where appropriate. To promote inclusive practice, procedures and processes have been subject to Equality Impact Assessment where appropriate. In line with the Equality Act 2010 and UWS Refreshed Equality Outcomes 2021 - 2025 Public Sector Equality Duty Mainstreaming and Equality Outcomes Report 2021 (uws.ac.uk) (pp. 37 - 39) the School of Health and Life Sciences encourages the disclosure of support requirements, including disability, at the recruitment stage and throughout the duration of the module. Emphasis is placed on confidentiality of information, the benefits of disclosure, and that no detriment to progress will be experienced. The School will endeavour to make reasonable adjustments to teaching and learning approaches and arrangements for assessment, and (when applicable) periods of placement, where appropriate.

All learning materials, activities and scenarios will utilise a diverse range of patients to reflect the diversity of students.

(N.B. Every effort will be made by the University to accommodate any equality and diversity issues brought to the attention of the School)
