Summary of Module

Students undertaking this module will extend their underpinning theoretical and practical sport coaching knowledge and delivery experience, by examining a range of contemporary sport coaching pedagogies. This will focus upon the integration of related disciplines within the field, across a range of diverse groups.

Direction will be provided in relation to: an introduction to learning theory, use of the concepts around skill attainment, delivery approaches, and content design.

Students will also be able to establish and exhibit appropriate professional behaviours with respect to their peers, and with participants, in various learning environments.

Furthermore, this module will allow the student to gain valuable experience of examining appropriate research in relation to sport coaching content construction, delivery and participant response.

This module will assist the student in the development of key 'I am UWS Graduate Attributes' to allow those that complete this module to be:

Universal:

Critical Thinker

Emotionally Intelligent

Collaborative

Work Ready:

Problem -solver

Motivated

Potential Leader

Successful:

Innovative

Resilient

Transformational

[1] Where contact hours are synchronous/ live and take place fully on campus. Campus-based learning is focused on providing an interactive learning experience supported by a range of digitally-enabled asynchronous learning opportunities including learning materials, resources, and opportunities provided via the virtual learning environment. On-campus contact hours will be clearly articulated to students.

[2] The module includes a combination of synchronous/ live on-campus and online learning events. These will be supported by a range of digitally-enabled asynchronous learning opportunities including learning materials, resources, and opportunities provided via the virtual learning environment. On-campus and online contact hours will be clearly articulated to students.

[3] Where all learning is solely delivered by web-based or internet-based technologies and the participants can engage in all learning activities through these means. All required contact hours will be clearly articulated to students.

[4] Learning activities where the main location for the learning experience is in the workplace. All required contact hours, whether online or on campus, will be clearly articulated to students

Learning and Teaching
In line with current learning and teaching principles, a 20-credit module includes 200 learning hours, normally including a minimum of 36 contact hours and maximum of 48 contact hours.
The teaching and learning approach will utilise a combination of blended and face to face delivery. Core theoretical content will be predominantly delivered through a series of asynchronous online materials, including recorded lectures via the virtual learning environment. Synchronous sessions will comprise coaching practicals, workshops, and tutorial support activities. Much of the learning will be achieved through formative practical components, directed independent study tasks, group work and/or class discussion.
A Constructivist approach to learning is used throughout this module, with a strong emphasis placed on students' self-discovery through experiential learning. This requires them to reflect on previously acquired experience and understanding, to construct a new personal understanding of a concept being taught. This allows the student to contextualise the taught concepts in their own coaching environment, and independent group study sessions.

Learning Activities During completion of this module, the learning activities undertaken to achieve the module learning outcomes are stated below:	Student Learning Hours (Note: Learning hours include both contact hours and hours spent on other learning activities)
Tutorial / Synchronous Support Activity	12
Laboratory / Practical Demonstration / Workshop	24
Asynchronous Class Activity	18
Independent Study	246

Indicative Resources
The following materials form essential underpinning for the module content and ultimately for the learning outcomes: Core Text: Baghurst, T (2020) Coaching for Sports Performance, Routledge Light, R (2019) Positive Pedagogy for Sport Coaching; Routledge Recommended Text: Armour, K (2011) Sport Pedagogy: An Introduction to teaching and Coaching: Routledge Gordon, D (2009) Coaching Science, Learning Matter
(N.B. Although reading lists should include current publications, students are advised (particularly for material marked with an asterisk*) to wait until the start of session for confirmation of the most up-to-date material)

Attendance and Engagement Requirements
In line with the Student Attendance and Engagement Procedure, Students are academically engaged if they are regularly attending and participating in timetabled on-campus and online teaching sessions, asynchronous online learning activities, course-related learning resources, and complete assessments and submit these on time. For the purposes of this module, academic engagement equates to the following: 100% Attendance at all module events and consistent weekly engagement with online materials.

Equality and Diversity
The University's Equality, Diversity and Human Rights Procedure can be accessed at the following link: UWS Equality, Diversity and Human Rights Code.

In line with current legislation (Equality Act, 2010) and the UWS Equality, Diversity, and Human Rights Code, our modules are accessible and inclusive, with reasonable adjustment for different needs where appropriate. Module materials comply with University guidance on inclusive learning and teaching, and specialist assistive equipment, support provision and adjustment to assessment practice will be made in accordance with UWS policy and regulations. Where modules require practical learning or assessment, alternative formats and/or roles will be provided for students with physical disabilities which impact participation.

(N.B. Every effort will be made by the University to accommodate any equality and diversity issues brought to the attention of the School)
